The Green Card Scheme

Now it is possible to be granted a one year work cum residence permit and subsequently for 4 years of stay and work in Denmark. A residence and work permit under the Green Card Scheme is issued on the basis of an individual evaluation using a point system designed to assess the likelihood that the applicant will be able to find qualified work in Denmark.

In order to be granted a residence permit under the Green Card Scheme, you must attain at least 100 points. Points are given for educational level, language skills, work experience, adaptability, and age. A residence permit under the Green Card Scheme can be granted for 1 year and subsequently for 3 years with a possibility for extension of up to four years.

Immigrant opportunities to other countries take more than a year, but Denmark Green Card processing time is less than 8 months. Denmark requires high skilled immigrants to close the skills gap.

This scheme started in the year 2007 issuing than 1500 green cards and is still open this year allowing many more qualified Indians to settle in Denmark.

What does Greencard feature?

You can work full time for the initial three years. You can then extend your visa for four years and this extension is done on the basis of you being able to support yourself without recourse to public funds and work experience gained.

After the completion of 7 years in Denmark, you may apply for citizenship.

Country to other immigration opportunities in Canada and Australia which take more than a year Denmark Green Card process time is less than 8 months.

Green Card allows you take your family members and they can also work or study in Denmark.

Why should you migrate to Denmark?

Based on the standards of Education, Health, Employment and Welfare, it is ranked as "happiest place to live in the world"

Unemployment rate is historical low which means that there are many job opportunities for immigrants.

Denmark is one of the highest paying countries for employees which make it the best option when compared to other European countries.

English is the corporate language. It is the main medium of communication unlike other European countries. Both in corporate environments and society, English is used.
